

THE GAZETTE.

TUESDAY DECEMBER 13.
AN ENGLISH HALLELUJAH CHORUS.

American free traders have displayed cautionary signals for the benefit of their English associates. They have warned the London press, says the New York Tribune, that premature manifestations of joy over the president's message will tend to retard the progress of free trade in America. The English press hereafter, will discuss the subject with greater reserve and caution; but the true friends of American industry will make a serious mistake if they are impressed upon by this diplomatic change of manner. The real feeling of the manufacturing and commercial classes of Great Britain was frankly and unmistakably expressed when the president's message was first received. The earnest deliverance of the English press is now and will remain conclusive on this question. The message was accepted in the first instance without reserve or qualification as a declaration in favor of free trade pure and simple.

The summaries given in the dispatches of the earliest committee of the London and provincial press upon the message ought to satisfy any candid reader that there was an explosion of joy throughout England. All the esoteric and ambiguous euphemisms of the president to his reservations in favor of home manufactures and American workmen were brushed aside. British manufacturers were to be admitted to American markets on terms which would enable foreign goods to compete on an equal footing with the products of the American loom and the American anvil. This was the sense in which the message was universally interpreted in England, and every organ of opinion there was convulsed with spasms of delight. The immediate result of the adoption of the president's policy was clearly discerned by every Englishman. There would be an enormous increase of British exports to the United States. The American market would be glutted with British wares, and competition based on higher wages would be speedily disarmed. This was the judgment of all England, and the pageant of the weekly journals upon the president's character and policy have fully confirmed it. There was a hallelujah chorus, loud and strong, from one end of England to the other.

This is a fact of the highest significance for Americans. If doubt and uncertainty exist here among certain classes of the community respecting the probable results of a lower tariff and free trade, England knows its own mind in this subject and has revealed it. British manufacturers have never doubted their ability to crush American competition and get possession of our markets under free trade. No laborer's calculations are required in order to prove the correctness of this reasoning. The question of wages settles the controversy as soon as it is raised.

With the advantage of lower wages British manufacturers would inevitably drive their American competitors out of trade. When they assume to stand in dread of that competition they are masquerading under the thinnest of disguises. Let no American be deceived when the London correspondent of "The New York Times" asserts that he can quote "dozens of English experts who believe a reduction of American duties will gravely threaten English commercial supremacy where one can be found who thinks England will gain by it." That is a flagrant delusion put forward with intent to entrap credulous Americans. The English people did not have their tongues in their cheeks when they went into ecstasies over the president's message. They rejoiced with symbols and shawms because it was their victory, for an American president had been delivered into their hands.

A POINT AGAINST THE ADMINISTRATION.

It is a situation, says Mr. Cleveland, not a theory, which confronts us. Good, so it is. Then in dealing with it, let's confine ourselves to the situation and have done with theories and theories. About the situation all agree. It is expressed in figures. The country's receipts are $25,567,949.50, and the outlay is $27,280,503.33. The difference is $1,712,553.83, or 6.7 per cent. Now there is the situation, and how does common sense suggest dealing with it? Obviously the taxes to cut off are the taxes that are most oppressive. No one who claims to pay customs duties is exempted to do so. He can buy domestic goods always cheaper and usually better. But it isn't possible to escape the payment of direct taxes. If the democrats are dealing with the situation, they will accept the republican plan just as they have accepted its plans heretofore after long periods of opposition, and reduce the revenues in the common sense way. They need not be impatient about adopting their opponents' policy. They have been doing that sort of thing for a quarter of a century. They are administering the affairs of the country to-day upon republican policies, which they lately opposed. Their president is now endeavoring to reduce a surplus which has been produced by the operation of laws which they prophesied would result in bankruptcy. Let them stop theorizing and deal with the situation. —New York Tribune.

Mr. Cleveland jumped at too many conclusions when he accepted Mr. Carlisle's suggestion to write a free trade message, or one which practically means the same thing. Here are some facts for the administration to consider. Mr. Cleveland says the duty on wool enhances the price of wool ten cents a pound. In London the Southdown and Kent fleeces sell from 21 to 26 cents a pound, while American wool, that raised in New York, Ohio and some other states, fetches in London from 27 to 33 cents a pound, which reflects the fact that the tariff does not fix the price of wool in the way Mr. Cleveland supposes.

Another point: The quality of clothing, or woollen goods of any kind, used by a very large majority of the people of this country, are as cheap in the United States as in England. There is not an importer of foreign goods in this country but will substantiate the statement that the goods worn by nine-tenths of the people here, are as cheap as in any part of Europe where free trade exists. Again: If Mr. Cleveland wants to reduce the revenue why does he want the duty taken from wool, and not from tobacco? He can reduce the revenue by 30 million a year by taking the tax off tobacco and allowing the duty to remain. Or he can reduce the surplus by 50 million a year by taking the duty off sugar and the tax off tobacco. There are several ways by which the revenue can be reduced other than by striking a blow at the workingmen and the industries of the country. But evidently Mr. Cleveland was not instructed to deal with the tariff and revenue from an honest practical point of view. He wants to slaughter the sheep and throw stonies goods from abroad upon the markets of this country, and does not defend the industries that have done so much for the prosperity of this country.

The attention of the administration is called to some very clear voices from the south. The first from the Alabama Age, democratic: "An overwhelming vote of the people will repudiate the president's theory of taxation. His present message will defeat him unless repudiated by his party."

The second from the New Orleans Times, democratic: "To take the extreme tariff position hinted at rather than declared by the president in his message, would injure rather than benefit the democratic party, and cripple rather than develop and improve the country."

The third is from the Birmingham (Ala.) Herald, democratic: "We feel that the president has made a serious blunder, and has struck a serious blow at the fine prospects of the democratic party and his own chances for reelection. If he be nominated on such a platform as his message indicates he can not be re-elected. We fear that he has thrown the democratic party into the fire."

There are other like expressions coming from the south that show the sentiment here on the free trade message.

KICKING IN LOUISIANA.

The Sugar Planters' Association held its regular monthly meeting in New Orleans last Thursday. From the Times-Democrat's report we learn that the president's message occupied a good deal of attention in the meeting. The president carefully abstained from recommending the reduction of sugar duties, while he "went for" the wool-growers, the planters recognize that their interests are much exposed to suffer whenever an assault is made on the policy of protection.

In the meeting referred to Dr. W. B. Brockell said he had read the president's message with surprise. In his judgment it was a death blow to the sugar industry of the country. If the policy of free trade as outlined in the message was to be carried out the planter might as well abandon his plantation at once. He thought it was time to speak out, and he accordingly offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That we, the members of the Sugar Planters' association of Louisiana, view with alarm the annual message of the president to the United States Congress, both approve and adopt the sense of the resolutions approved and passed by the wool growers and dealers of the United States at the session of their conference on the 7th instant. We pledge ourselves to stand side by side with them in determined and unflinching resistance to the imperial and uncalculated attack upon the great industry of our state and upon the well-being of the entire country.

Be it further Resolved, That we are not to be misled by the illogical and threadbare arguments of the president in his endeavor to support his free trade policy; that it is the duty of our government to encourage rather than crush our home industries. The wonderful growth of our country is simply the natural result of an intelligent protective policy, backed by the intelligent, plucky, untiring and progressive spirit of our people, and not from slavish dependence upon other countries for the necessities of life.

These resolutions created something of a sensation. The motion to adopt them was seconded. Then some of the planters suggested that no hasty action should be taken, and the resolution was finally referred to a committee with instructions to report on them at the January meeting.

The attempted assassination of Mr. Ferry will cause great excitement in France, particularly in Paris. The assassin evidently had not sufficient nerve and coolness to fire with effect. At any rate he has succeeded in inflicting wounds not at all likely to prove serious.

The attack upon the ex-prime minister was doubtless a sequel of the agitation caused by the presidential election a week ago. Mr. Ferry is one of the ablest leaders that the republicans in France have had, but the failure of his Tongue scheme cost him his popularity, and the fact that some of his associates were not men of incorruptible character still further discredited him. His election as president had it been brought about, would have meant a revolution. Public opinion is against Mr. Ferry, but assassination will not for that reason be approved. Possibly this attack may cause a reaction in his favor.

TAKEN TO PRISON.

Harper Sentenced to Serve a Ten-Year Term.

PATHETIC SCENES IN COURT.

The Bank Wrecker's Appeal for Delay in Executing the Sentence Denied and He Is Taken to Columbus at Once.

HARPER GOES TO THE STRIPS. CINCINNATI, Dec. 12.—E. L. Harper, the fidelity bank wrecker, was taken to the Ohio penitentiary at Columbus at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon to serve out the sentence of ten years imposed upon him by the court in the morning. At 10 o'clock Judge Sage opened court, Judge Jackson being absent and shortly after the jury filed in. The court-room was crowded, but quiet. Mr. Harper was brought in to hear the verdict, being followed by his wife, pale and distressed, and Miss Matthews, his wife's sister. The verdict was then read: "We, the jury, find the defendant guilty, as charged in the indictment." A motion in arrest of judgment was overruled, and Judge Sage proceeded to pass sentence, after denying a motion to make the sentence commutative, the defendant being found guilty on thirty-three counts. The court then ordered Harper to stand up. The scene was affecting. Harper stood erect and motionless, with the tears coursing down his pale cheeks, his wife wringing her hands, his sister, and Miss Matthews uttering just-suppressed sobs at his side. Solemnly the sentence was pronounced. The court said there was no doubt of the prisoner's guilt, and the offense merited the highest penalty of the law, which the court imposed, condemning Harper to ten years imprisonment in the Ohio penitentiary and directing that he be taken there at once. Harper sat down, and during his wife's sobs uttered and kissed each other's lips. The scene was so affecting that nearly every body in the court-room wept. A plea for delay was made to the court to give the doomed man time to transact some business, but it was denied. Harper was then taken to the jail, where he prepared for his departure. His family joined him and said good-bye. Mrs. Harper lingered after the others had departed, and her farewell was spoken with him alone. A moment afterward he appeared as unmoved as ever. Shortly before 4 o'clock a carriage appeared at the jail, into which Harper, his wife, his sister, his deputy marshals, Kierstead and Castello, entered and were driven to the central passenger depot. He was placed in a parlor car for the Midland train, in the smoking department, and the carriages started. Mrs. Matthews joined him, accompanied by her sister and her brother. At 4:03 the train moved out.

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 13.—Edward L. Harper arrived at the Ohio penitentiary last night. After bidding his wife and friends good-bye Harper was taken into the guard-room and searched. He had $102 in money, which he placed with some of his belongings in a room at the Columbus Hotel. After this formality Harper was assigned to cell 114, block I, range 1, in the new part of the prison building, and where the cells are quite large and airy. His number is 10-117. With good behavior he can save two and a half years of his sentence.

FRANCE HAS A CABINET.

M. Tirard Forms a Ministry—President Carnot's Message Will Ask Parliament to Adopt the Policy of Conciliation—M. Ferry's Coalition.

PARIS, Dec. 13.—The Journal Official publishes the list of the new Cabinet as follows: President of the Council, Minister of Finance and Minister of Posts and Telegraphs, M. Tirard; Minister of Justice, M. Fallieres; Minister of Foreign Affairs, M. Florentin; Minister of the Interior, M. Sarrien; Minister of Commerce, M. Baudouin; Minister of Public Works, M. Loubet; Minister of Marine, M. De Maity; Minister of Agriculture, M. Viette; Minister of Public Instruction, M. Faye; Minister of War, M. Sarrailh.

The Cabinet formed by M. Tirard is a moderate Republican body. M. Tirard is opposed to the autonomy of Paris and to the separation of church and state. General Logerot is commander of the Eighth Army Corps, with headquarters at Bourges. He distinguished himself in the Tunisian campaign. M. Tirard, Fallieres, Baudouin, Loubet and Baudouin belong to the union of the Left, and M. Sarrien and Viette belong to the more advanced group. M. Florentin is not a member of the Chamber of Deputies. The new Cabinet held its meeting at the Elysée last evening, when President Carnot read his message to Parliament. The message is plain and to the point, expressing the hope that the same spirit of conciliation which has been shown by the members of the chambers that his election was due to the spirit of conciliation among the members of the Congress, will express the hope that the same spirit will continue to prevail in both houses. The message relating to France's foreign policy is couched in the most pacific terms. The message dwells upon the necessity of slow, careful action in the danger of Cretan projects, and the importance of settling aside all violence and uniting Frenchmen in one patriotic movement. The President concludes with the promise to show himself worthy of the honor done him. The Cabinet's reply to the message will declare that the Government's desire is to begin the exhibition year with peace and concord at home, and will demand as a condition of confidence three provincial credits.

There were buyers in abundance but no sellers could be found. In this city the excitement on the floor of the exchange was intense, and the market opened with copper at 17.50, a decline of 100 points, or a cent per pound for spot, or 17.20 to 17.35 for December futures, 17.30 to 17.35 was bid; January, 17.40 to 17.50; February closed at 17.70 and April at 17.75. ## OUR NEW POSTMASTER.

Clarence L. Clark, Manager of the Recorder, Receives the Appointment.

A Great Victory for the Young Democracy of the Bower City.

Brief Sketch of Mr. Clark's Life and Other Interesting Points.

Last evening word reached the city that President Cleveland had sent the name of Clarence L. Clark to the senate for confirmation as postmaster at Janesville vice Hamilton Richardson, whose time had expired.

This news was hailed with joy by the many friends of Mr. Clark, especially so by the "young democracy" by whom a most persistent fight for the place had been made for their young chief, the "young democracy" being opposed by many of the old stagers and wheel-horses of the party. It was a democratic struggle for the spoils, and as the private characters of the aspirants were above reproach, the Gazette, with the great majority of republicans, was content to stand by and quietly witness the contest. The struggle is now ended, and Mr. Clark, the wide-awake business manager of our esteemed contemporary, has won. That Mr. Clark will make an efficient postmaster, conducting the affairs of the office for the sole convenience of its patrons, none will doubt.

Mr. Clark is a thorough Janesville boy, being born in this city September 9th, 1859, and is, therefore, but thirty-one years of age. He is the oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Clark. He attended the common schools of this city until he was about sixteen years of age, at which time he entered the Northwestern Farmer printing office, owned by Mr. Stafford, for the purpose of learning the printer's trade. He continued with the Farmer for one year, then entered the office of the Times, A. O. Wilson, proprietor, continuing with the Times for two years. Born and partly raised a thoroughbred republican, his intimate friends claim that it was here he absorbed the principles of democracy, as he has ever since been one of the staunchest leaders of the young democracy of this city. At this time his eyesight commenced to fail and he was compelled to give up his chosen occupation, and entered the grocery business, being connected with E. C. Smith, and with Tarrant & Dutton. Here a desire to be a lawyer occupied his mind and he took a preparatory course at the Evanson university, then a short time in the office of Captain Norcross, and then a three years course in the law department of the Wisconsin university, graduating in 1889.

Returning to Janesville he commenced the practice of law, being for a time in partnership with E. M. Hyzer, Esq. He continued the practice of law until he assumed the business management of the Recorder Printing Company. He is a thorough going business man, and has made a success of a daily democratic paper in Janesville.

Gentlemanly in all his intercourse with his fellowmen, he has gained the respect and confidence of all regardless of political differences, and to-day he is one of the most popular young men in the city. The postoffice having come into the democratic camp, could not have been placed in better or more competent hands; there is none but who congratulate Mr. Clark upon his good luck and political preference, and in this the Gazette lends oil.

—Mr. Charles Shaffer, of Chicago, arrived in the city last evening, and commenced putting up and adjusting the alarm boxes this morning. Mr. Shaffer is employed in the Chicago fire alarm service, and understands all the details. The line will probably be completed this week, and then there will be no banging of the bells.

—The boys were entertained at the Wayside Inn last evening in a very pleasant manner by Mr. John Noyes. He gave them a number of very enjoyable pictures and the hour was a pleasant one. The organization will hereafter be known as the "Boys' Union" and a ticket will be furnished each member. A prize is offered to as many as will be present at each meeting between now and next June.

—L. L. Clarke's shoe store on West Milwaukee street has been sold to J. B. Minor, of the fourth ward. An inventory is now being taken and Mr. Minor will probably assume possession tomorrow. Mr. Clarke has not yet decided whether he will re-enter business at once or not. His friends, who are almost beyond number, will be glad to know that for a time at least his home will remain in this city. Mr. Minor, who succeeded Mr. Clarke, is too well known to need praise in these columns. Although far from old in years or "snip" he is one of the "old residents" of the city and his extended acquaintance will be of much value to him in his new position.

—The Ladies' Christian Union of the First M. E. church of this city, will give a supper at Cannon's hall on Wednesday evening, Dec. 11. Supper will consist of chicken pie, roast turkey, roast duck, baked pork and beans, bread and butter, tea and coffee, jellies, pickles, cake, etc. Supper will be served from 5 to 9 o'clock. The young ladies of the society will conduct a candy booth where a variety of home made candies will be on sale at reasonable prices. Everybody is cordially invited to come and have a good time and help a good cause. Remember the time and place—Wednesday evening, Dec. 11 at Cannon's hall.

—On Friday last, Mr. Charles L. Poole, the unfortunate insane brother of Mrs. Pliny Norcross, of this city, left his quarters at the county insane asylum at Johnston, and has not yet returned. During the five years that he has been in the asylum he has been in the habit of taking long walks toward Lima, or in other directions, and returning before dinner, or at farthest before tea, very rarely missing a meal, so that his absence did not occasion any uneasiness on the part of his attendants or Mr. Allen, until Friday night. On Saturday search was made, and continued on Sunday and Monday. Messengers and telegrams to the surrounding towns failed to give any clue. In the hope that some person can give information of his whereabouts, we give his description: He is about six feet tall, weighs about 170 pounds, has very dark hair and full dark beard with considerable grey intermixed; has a bald spot on the top of his head; had on when he left a dark cloth cap, dark grey single breasted coat and vest, dark brown trousers and high calf skin boots. He is round shouldered, walks rapidly, and pays no attention whatever to persons whom he meets; rarely, if ever, answering a question. Grave fears are entertained that he is lost.

Any information regarding him will be most thankfully received by Peter Allen, superintendent of county farm at Johnston, or by Pliny Norcross, Janesville, Wis.

CRAMPS OF THE MUSCLES CURED.

John L. Wood, of Stratford, Conn., was cured of cramps in the legs by wearing Alcock's Porous Plasters. Mr. Wood says:

Some three months ago I was taken very sick with severe pain in the small of the back over the kidneys. The pain was excruciating. I applied an Alcock's Porous Plaster over the affected portion and had relief almost within an hour. At the same time, in conjunction with this trouble, I had very great nervous disturbance affecting my legs with cramps so I could scarcely sleep. Alcock's Porous Plaster was applied to the legs and in three days was completely cured, and have never been troubled in either way since.

—Don't stand on the order of going—but go straight to the next corner and buy a bottle of Dr. Ball's Congo Syrup, and you want to get it now.

—Farmers and Horsemen read this—L. J. Salvation Oil is a most excellent liniment among horses, and I take pleasure in endorsing it as a certain remedy for scratches.

—Franklin Road, near Baltimore.

THE WEATHER.

At seven o'clock this morning the thermometer indicated 22 degrees above zero. Clear, with south wind. At one o'clock p. m. the register was 41 degrees above zero. Clear with south wind. For the corresponding hours one year ago the register was 25 and 32 degrees above zero.

Barometrical reading, taken by F. Sherer, 20.25, rising, prospect of clear weather.

A Horse that Can Talk.

Everybody has heard of a "horse laugh" but who has ever seen an equine gifted with the power of speech? Such an animal would be pronounced a miracle, but so would the telegraph and the telephone have been a hundred years ago. Why, have you recently a cure for consumption that would be looked upon as miraculous, but now people are beginning to realize that the disease is not incurable.

Dr. J. C. Rogers' Golden Medical Discovery will cure it, if taken in time. This world-renowned remedy will not make you lame, but it will restore diseased ones to a healthy state when all other means have failed. Thousands can gratefully testify to this. All druggists.

A HAPPY REUNION.

Janesville People Figure in a Minneapolis Romance—How It Happened.

There has occurred in Janesville within the past few days one of these episodes that go far to prove that "truth is stranger than fiction."

Years ago, in a little hamlet of Iowa called Hepler, there lived three families by the names of Paley, Marsden and Hinkley. These three families were all in comfortable circumstances and very friendly to one another. For a number of years they lived thus amicably together when sorrow came to the Paley household through sickness, which carried off Mrs. Paley and her daughter, leaving James Paley a desolate man in a broken up home, with two little boys.

It was then that the Hinkleys and Marsdens showed their friendship, by taking the two lonely, motherless children to their homes, because there were women to watch them, and other children that they could play with. Shortly after this arrangement was made they all separated. James Paley stayed in Hepler. Silas Marsden moved to Minneapolis, and the Hinkleys came into Wisconsin, and they took the boys of James Paley along with them and adopted them into their families. Years passed away, and with the changes of time came many changes in the lives of the people who go to make up this little romance. James Paley stayed for some time at Hepler, then moved to Sauk Centre, and six or seven years ago drifted out to California, where he commenced to amass considerable property, both personal and real. Meanwhile he had lost all knowledge of the whereabouts of his children or of the families that had adopted them, and this caused him considerable anxiety.

It was not until a short time ago that he got track of these he sought. A Minneapolis paper fell into his hands containing the advertisement of—

RE BECAME CONVINCED THAT THIS MUST BE HIS OLD FRIEND SILAS MARSDEN, OF HEPLER, IOWA, AND CLOSING UP HIS BUSINESS AFFAIRS IN CALIFORNIA, PROMPTLY MADE HIS WAY TO MINNEAPOLIS. HE FOUND HIS WAY ALMOST IMMEDIATELY TO MARSDEN'S OFFICE, AND AS THE DOOR OPENED, FATHER AND SON STOOD FACE TO FACE. THE SCENE THAT FOLLOWED WAS NOT FOR THE PUBLIC EYE.

Justice it now to add that the father had not forgotten his other son. From the Marsdens he gained all the clues as to the boy's whereabouts that he could and then started on another long trip in search of him.

Commencing at Sauk Centre he traced member of the Hinkley family through Iowa into Wisconsin and finally located him at Janesville. He proved to be the one wanted.

The boy, William, had grown up under the name of Hinkley and had made for himself the name of an industrious, hard working young man. But there is also a fancy side to the story. William in this city, was married some time ago under his adopted name, and he is now thinking if he is married at all, or if it will be necessary for him to get divorced and remarry to make things all square. No little trouble of this kind, however, can drive the great joy the two boys feel in beholding their long absent father who to all intents and purposes was dead to them for so many years. The family so curiously reunited will leave for California soon and will make their home hereafter in the land of the Golden Gate.

TERRY PREFERED.

Considerable of Last Year's Tobacco Still Being Bought.

Several local buyers are still looking around the county for choice lots of '89 leaf. S. H. Eldredge has within a short time past taken in five hundred cases although his record is somewhat of an exceptional one. Most of the leaf bought this week went at from four to six cents a pound.

As a rule the Wisconsin market for the week has been a quiet one. Farmers have been busy getting their new leaf into shape for the buyers, while the buyers themselves are held back by the high prices
